The University of California UCPath project has launched a new website. This new site will notify UC employees of important announcements and progress updates concerning the UCPath project. The address of the new site is http://ucpath.universityofcalifornia.edu

UCPath is a large project that will affect every UC employee systemwide. This new website will serve as the primary vehicle to stay informed about this strategic initiative.

UCPath Communication site structure is as follows: