

Here's a compilation of resources we all highlighted at last week's meeting. If you have any questions, feel free to reach out to the person directly or email Erika Johnson or Matt Wood to help connect.

Lauren Marallo (Giving Day update):

Leadership is currently evaluating our strategy and we will know more about which direction we're going in next week given current events. But at this time, giving will still go on as planned on May 14-15. We set up a Crowdsurf linked to the COVID-19 Emergency Response Fund and the Student Support and Success Fund: <https://crowdsurf.ucsd.edu/project/20439>.

We've been focusing on Alumni Engagement, and are currently crafting other messages to our constituents about UC San Diego's response to COVID-19

Amy Lipsitz:

We have a social media Slack channel where I'm sending regular COVID-19 updates, campus updates, suggested posts, social toolkits, and social templates. I know a lot of you are already members, but if you aren't and would like to join or would like a member of your team to join, you can do so here: https://join.slack.com/t/ucsandiegosocialmedia/shared\_invite/zt-cqqoujrb-FL4A\_0pX6pEZrhh6hL26qw

Mari Chosich:

The Playground provides access to video workouts from our Rec trainers and instructors, LIVE Rec events and classes streaming online. Classes are a mix of fitness, yoga, wellbeing, fine arts and DIY. The Playground will also host workout playlists, eSports competitions, Instagram challenges, playground pals, walking paths, articles from our Registered Dietician, tips and tricks to help you stay active and more. <https://recreation.ucsd.edu/>

Anthony King:

The Division of Arts/Humanities will be sending an info newsletter to all staff/faculty this week via Constant Contact, per usual.

Regarding balance between sharing "all COVID-19 news" and "general" news from Div. of Arts/Humanities: We are playing with this as well. For social media we are taking guidance from the main @UCSanDiego account. Our upcoming newsletter will be bookended with COVID-19 content (message from Dean first, press clips end) with our regular updates in the center. Hoping this is a good balance.

Re: finding/sharing/pitching stories about individual COVID-19 related responses, I'm finding a lot of people in my area are just as flustered and anxious. Balancing when to push for those stories and when to back off and give space has been important. Also, some don't want to be seen as "promoting" themselves during this hard time.
